Human Values Foundation: Stories on Values Competition 2017

Our second Stories on Values Competition for children aged 7 to 11 to mark World Values Day 2017 lived up to the incredibly high standards set in the first year. As in 2016, we invited children to write an original and creative story about their favourite value using no more than 350 words.

We had a wonderful response. Our distinguished judges had an extremely tough task in picking out the winners from many imaginative, well-crafted stories showing so many different ways in which values play a central role in all our lives, whether as children or adults.

The winning story was from Giselle of St Paul's C of E Primary School in north London, telling how a flower given in love provided the spark that set free the values from the negativity that had imprisoned them in a dark dungeon of doom.

Second place went to a story about a little girl with a big vision for helping others written by Melanie from The English School in Kuwait. Her dynamic heroine, inspired by the saying "little girls with dreams become women with vision", is an irresistible force who overcomes all obstacles to provide water to needy villages.

Book token prizes went to the two winners and were also awarded to the six highly recommended entries.
